Early Morning Blaze Burns Shepeck Plant

The Shepeck Dimension Co. plant at Wells, remnant of the once great I. Stephenson Co. lumber complex was burned to the ground in a spectacular early morning fire at Wells today.

Firemen from Escanaba responded in sub-zero weather at 5:40 a. m., but the building was already engulfed in flames.

"By the time I was called out at six o'clock the sky was already red," said one fireman.

Estimates of damage ranged between $100,000 and $200,000 in the building which in the early 1940's had replacement value over $1 million.

Hubert Shepeck, owner, said the loss was partially insured.

Cause of the fire remains undetermined, according to Chief Palmer Derouin of the Escanaba Fire Dept. There were reports from other sources, however, of an explosion in the building.

"When our number two truck from the North Escana station arrived the building was completely consumed by fire," Derouin said. We laid a line immediately to protect the Shell Oil terminal to the south, but didn't have to use it."

Derouin said the 12 firemen called out fought a holding action to contain the fire to the Shepeck building. He said what wind there was helped steer the flames away from the Escanaba & Lake Superior railroad building, the oil terminal and the Chicago & North Western ore docks.

Firemen this morning roped off an area around a large water tower to guard against injury from possible collapse of a wooden tank atop steel girders. The tank was burned out. Firemen also were concerned that a large smokestack at the boiler house and machine shop section of the plant would topple.

One guy wire from the stack had snapped and it was leaning slightly when the section was roped off.

Derouin said firemen would remain at the scene all day until the fire was completely out.

The main section of the plant, in which the fire apparently started sometime after 5 a. m., was 286 x 132 feet and was of two-story wood construction. It was built in 1902 as a hardwood flooring factory by I. Stephenson Co.

Shepeck and his partner, John W. Stoll, took over the building for operation as a dimension plant manufacturing wood parts for Packard automobiles, frames and bottoms and dimension stock of various kinds, glued-up parts for furniture, toilet seats and school desk tops.

Three men employed as competition from other products, plastics, etc., increased and foreign competition got stronger, the Shepeck Dimension Co. operation diminished and was finally shut down in 1959.

Only three men and a secretary were put out of work by the fire. The men were engaged in making skids and crates for industrial and some retail sales.

The building was also used to store some machinery and a late model automobile and camper trailer owned by Ward Korten of Escanaba were destroyed in the fire. A boat stored in the building also was destroyed.

Shepeck said a considerable amount of lumber, machinery, saws, planers and a fork lift truck were in the building.

Records lost "There were no employees in the building at the time the fire started," Shepeck said. Included in the loss was the company office, which housed all of the records and files.

"I had a lot of old pictures and things in the office that can't be replaced," he said.

The safe, which lies in the ruins was scorched by the intense heat of the fire, but Shepeck said he hoped that at least some of its contents would be all right to allow him to get figures on how much lumber and material was in the building.

He said his plans for the future were indefinite.

Hare Building Election Law Reform Lobby

LANSING (AP)—Secretary of State James Hare is forming a platoon of ex-legislator lobbyists which he hopes can get his long-favored election reform views written into law.

Hare had said previously he is planning to dismiss 10 to 20 of his branch managers around the state and to replace many of them, perhaps about 10, with Democratic members of the legislature who were defeated Nov. 8.

Questioned Thursday, he said he hoped the experience, knowledge and contacts of the lawmakers would pave the way for Hare's twice-rejected bill.

And, he said, that's just what he's going to ask his branch managers to do during the next legislative session.

"They're knowledgeable about the legislative process, and they know intimately many more legislators than I do," Hare said. "I haven't been able to get it through, but I hope they can."

The bill Hare wants would limit the expenditure of a statewide political candidate to $50 for each 1,000 votes cast for governor during the previous election. Nearly 2.5 million votes were cast in the Romney-Perency race Nov. 8.

"I'm particularly concerned with the growing, escalating spending for elections in this state," Hare said, adding the high cost of winning elections may let undesirable influences into Michigan politics.

Kelley To Appeal Ruling On JP Fees

LANSING (AP)—Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley has won one and lost one in the dispute over county payment of fees to justices of the peace.

He won one Thursday when Ingham County Circuit Judge Marvin J. Salmon held the JP's aren't entitled to the 60 cent fee they used to get for each docket sheet they filed with their local county clerk.

Kelley had lost one—although he wasn't a party to the suit—in Benzie County last week, when Circuit Judge William R. Peterson ruled justices are still entitled to the money.

The attorney general's office said it planned to appeal Peterson's ruling.

Navy, Air Force Get More Pilots

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara, moving to ease a shortage of combat pilots, has given the Navy and Air Force the go-ahead to sharply boost their pilot training next year.

This was revealed Thursday night by well-qualified sources who also said the secretary will sign an order within the next few days granting the Army additional funds to nearly double its pilot training output.

McNamara's decision to increase pilot training comes amid repeated reports that the armed services are facing severe shortages of young fliers due to the increasing demands of the Viet Nam war. The defense chief, however, has consistently denied that such shortages exist.

But the sources said McNamara now has approved an Air Force request for a ninth training base—to be named later—and also ordered it to accelerate pilot training programs.

The goal, said the sources, is to boost pilot output at the eight bases now in operation from this year's expected total of 2,760 to 2,920. McNamara also has ordered Air Force planners to get the new base in full operation by next July 1.

It was learned the Navy will not get new bases, but instead has been ordered to increase its facilities at training locations in Pensacola, Fla., Meridian, Miss., and Corpus Christi, Tex.

Under the McNamara plan, these bases are expected to turn out about 1,800 pilots this year; 2,200 pilots next year and 2,500 in fiscal 1969.

Thant To Stay On In UN Post

BULLETIN UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—The re-election of U. N. Secretary-General U Thant for a new five-year term was assured today.

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—The Security Council meets today to recommend the re-election of U Thant as secretary-general of the United Nations following his agreement to serve another term.

The 121-nation General Assembly was expected to ratify the council action later today and hear an acceptance statement from Thant.

Thant passed the word among members last January that he was thinking of bowing out at the close of his first term, which expired Nov. 3.

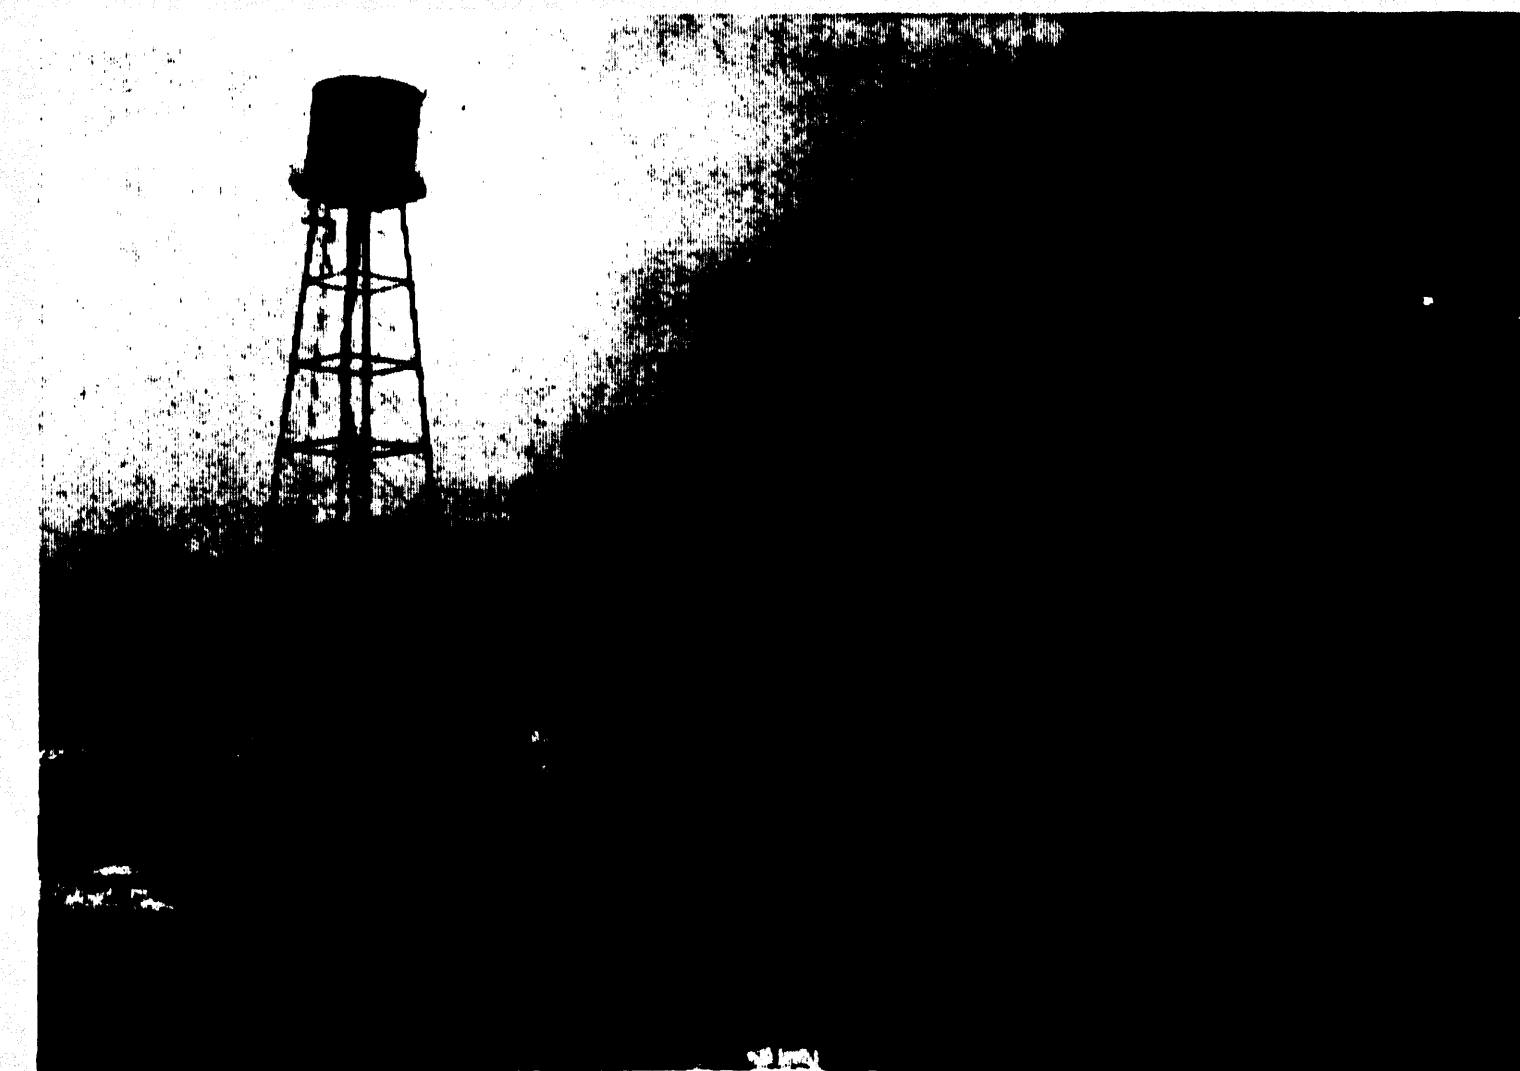

He announced Sept. 1 that he had decided against a second term. But the wording of the announcement left members in doubt. When the General Assembly opened its policy debate three weeks later, a parade of foreign ministers and top delegates appealed to the Burmese diplomat to reconsider.

Freighter's Cook Drowns Thursday At Saginaw Dock

SAGINAW (AP)—The second cook of the freighter G. G. Post drowned Thursday afternoon after he slipped from the ship's ladder, struck his head on a dock and fell into 22 feet of water, the Saginaw County Sheriff's Department said.

Dead is 33-year-old Jack Kelly of Port Colborne, Ont. Kelly's ship was unloading a cargo of scrap metal at the Ogilby-Norton Co. in Carrollton, just north of Saginaw, officials said. They said Kelly was returning from shore leave when he fell.

Crewmen aboard the G. G. Post spotted the first body from the freighter Daniel J. Morrell, which sank Tuesday in Lake Huron.

men were concerned, however, that the smokestack at the boiler house would fall. (Daily Press Photo by Bernard Schultz)

Morrell Tragedy Puzzles:

Coast Guard Readies Probe

HARBOR BEACH, Mich. (AP)—With 20 bodies found, the Coast Guard today pressed its search for eight missing but almost certainly dead crewmen of the Daniel J. Morrell in two.

Hale will be the only eyewitness before the board of inquiry appointed Thursday by Adm. Willard J. Smith, the Coast Guard commandant in Washington.

Rear Adm. Charles Tighe, commander of the Coast Guard 9th District with headquarters in Cleveland, Ohio, recommended the inquiry and was appointed to head the five-man board.

Such an investigation is reserved for major marine disasters. The board is expected to convene in Cleveland Monday.

No S.O.S. Among the puzzling aspects of the tragedy were these: —The Coast Guard reported receiving no distress signal from the Morrell, which sank about two hours after it sent a routine message stating its position in the storm-lashed waters.

Why did the 46-year-old Morrell go down when its sister ship, the E.Z. Townsend, also 66 years old, rode out the same storm in the same general area?

Near-freezing temperatures continued over the lake as hope dwindled that any of the missing would be found alive. Unaccounted for were two of the Morrell's lifeboats.

"If the men had gotten into one of those boats, they could still be alive, floating about out there someplace," said Lt. Kenneth Cutler, Coast Guard rescue coordination officer at Cleveland. "We admit it's only a strand of hope and very improbable."

Simultaneously, 50 to 70 Air Force Phantom jets and Thunderchiefs raided the Ha Gia oil depot 14 1/2 miles north of Hanoi, the spokesman said.

U.S. headquarters said a damage assessment of the raids had not been compiled from the pilots' reports.

The raids were the closest to Hanoi since June 29, when American planes struck an oil depot three miles from the center of the city as well as an oil depot on the outskirts of Hainan, North Viet Nam's chief port. They were the first American attacks in the immediate vicinity of North Viet Nam's two most important cities.

An earlier report from a U.S. spokesman placed the raids to-day at four miles from Hanoi but a later announcement corrected this.

In the ground war in South Viet Nam, U.S. air cavalrymen battled Red troops for nine hours Thursday in the Central Highlands 280 miles northeast of Saigon and killed 69 of them, U.S. military spokesmen reported.

The troops of the 1st Cavalry Division (Airmobile) suffered light casualties, the spokesman said.

Bombers Raid Red Oil Depot

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—Waves of U.S. bombers pounded an oil depot and truck park near Hanoi today in the closest raids to the North Vietnamese capital in five months.

Taking advantage of clearing weather, about 20 carrier-based Navy planes attacked the Van Dien vehicle depot five miles south of Hanoi, a U.S. spokesman announced.

Simultaneously, 50 to 70 Air Force Phantom jets and Thunderchiefs raided the Ha Gia oil depot 14 1/2 miles north of Hanoi, the spokesman said.

U.S. headquarters said a damage assessment of the raids had not been compiled from the pilots' reports.

Out To Stop Romney:

GOP Group Favors Reagan

WASHINGTON (AP)—A stop-Romney drive was launched Thursday by a conservative Republican group that said it looks with favor on California Gov.-elect Ronald Reagan as a possible 1968 GOP presidential nominee.

"It is our intention to vigorously oppose the nomination of any candidate as a Republican who has not, in the past, supported all other Republican nominees," chairman D. Bruce Evans of United Republicans of America (URA) told a news conference.

Evans made it clear this means Gov. George Romney of Michigan, a 1968 presidential possibility who refused in 1964 to endorse Republican nominee Barry Goldwater. However, Evans said URA will support Romney if he received the nomination.

Could Support Nixon Evans said the group could support former Vice President Richard M. Nixon against Romney if Reagan does not enter the race but that "personally all of us are very pro-Reagan."

URA will hold a convention in Dallas, Texas, in February 1968 to endorse a presidential candidate for whom it will work in Republican primaries and conventions, Evans said.

He mentioned another 1968 possibility, Gov. James A. Rhodes of Ohio, who, he said, is "an outstanding governor who should move on to higher office at some time."

URA is one of a number of conservative Republican groups that appeared after Goldwater's 1964 election defeat.

Charter State Groups Evans said URA is no longer keeping a national membership list but is concentrating on state, regional and local groups. State organizations have been chartered in California, Oregon, Illinois, New Jersey and Pennsylvania and will be started soon in Michigan, Ohio and Texas. He said county organizations already are under way in Ohio.

Wainwright Dawson Jr., director of field organizations for URA, said last month's Republican election gains of three Senate seats, 47 House seats and eight governorships were the result of "a Johnson backlash."

Also participating in the news conference was H. William Mulhany, newly appointed chairman of the United Republicans of New Jersey.

Speck Trial To Be Held Outside Of Cook County

CHICAGO (AP)—Judge Herbert Paschen of Circuit Court today granted a change of location to an unspecified area for the murder trial of Richard Speck, accused of murdering eight student nurses.

Judge Paschen said he would specify later the location for the trial Dec. 19.

The change of venue was granted on a motion by public defender Gerald Getty, Speck's lawyer.

The ruling was entered after William Martin, an assistant state's attorney, said he would not oppose Getty's motion.

Speck, 24, was judged mentally competent Wednesday to stand trial on a charge of murdering the eight young women July 14.

Win Pay Raise

LONDON (AP) — A pay increase was negotiated Wednesday for 400,000 British farm workers, the first for a major union since the government decreed an austerity freeze in July.

The raise of 84 cents a week is the lowest won by the farm union since 1962 and was 60 percent of what it sought. Basic pay is $30 for a 44-hour week.

Mayor Says Council Needs Clerk And Tape Recorder

The decision that optioned 48 acres of city-owned land on the north bay shore to the Chicago & North Western Railway for $35,000 was a topic of controversy with the City Council at its meeting Thursday night.

The Council disagreed on what had been said in advance of the signing, sealing and delivering of the option to the Railway — but they agreed with Mayor Harold Vanlerberghe when he said:

"We need a tape recorder at our meetings."

They needed more than a tape recorder, as was revealed in further discussion — they needed the presence of City Clerk Don Guindon at an informal meeting held at 4 p.m. Sept. 1 in the City Hall.

The city clerk was not at the session and no record of it appears in the minutes.

Cox Signed Option

On the basis of that informal gathering of the Councilmen with a representative of the Chicago & North Western Railway the option was offered to the Railway. City Manager George Harvey and City Attorney John G. Erickson said they understood they were authorized by the Council to have the option drawn, signed by the mayor and clerk, and delivered to the North Western.

Because Mayor Vanlerberghe and City Clerk Guindon were out of the city attending a Municipal League meeting, the option was signed by Mayor Protem Edward J. Cox and Deputy City Clerk Stella Jandis on Sept. 2.

There was also a separate resolution addressed to the North Western Railway requesting a meeting of city representatives with North Western directors.

What the Councilmen discussed in advance of the execution of the option resolution was a matter of controversy among the Councilmen last night.

Bad Bargaining?

Councilman George Rusch said he thought the discussion on Sept. 1 related to an option that was to be drawn up. He said he had never seen the option.

City Manager Harvey reviewed the situation and said that based on the Council discussion of the afternoon of Sept. 1, the option was drawn by the city attorney. The option is for six months with the right to renew for an additional six months.

Rusch expressed concern that because the option had been delivered to the Railway, it places the city in a bad bargaining position. The city would like some North Western land at the city's east side to include in an Urban Renewal project area. An exchange of land would be beneficial now and he was "sure the city would have to pay a half-million dollars for it in five years," he said.

Because the optioned land was not offered for public sale, Rusch said he felt the option did not obligate the Council. In the past the city has asked bids for sale of public land, he said.

"A Good Option"

(City Attorney Erickson advised the Council that bids are not required in the sale of "non-governmental" city-owned land.)

Asked for comment, the city attorney said:

"It's a good option. What are you going to do, back out of it? There was nothing said about the land going up for public sale."

Mayor Vanlerberghe recalled that Council has discussed land exchange with the North Western official, I. Robert Ballin, C&NW vice president — real estate.

He said the city and the North Western could mutually benefit by land exchange, that the city is interested in encouraging the North Western to expand its operations here, and that it is unfortunate that the Council has been accused of "secret meetings."

Clerk Not There

Mayor Vanlerberghe said he thought the city clerk should have been at the afternoon meeting of Sept. 1. "You are the clerk and are supposed to be there," he told Clerk Guindon.

"I'm sorry, gentlemen, but I was not there," Guindon said in explaining that he was not informed that a meeting had been held until the following day, when the city attorney dictated over the telephone the resolution adopting the option, he said.

Councilman Rusch repeated that the city is "going to pay through the nose" for failing to obtain a land exchange.

Mayor Vanlerberghe discounted this, saying he thought the North Western would set no more than a "fair value" on its property sought by the city.

The mayor said he believes the Council should not meet without the clerk being present and "in the future we should have a tape recorder to see where our memories stray."

Not First Time

The North Western is a "good neighbor" of the city and cooperative, he added.

There was a reference made to "motions made downstairs" by the Council and Councilman Cox said that in the past it "has been done with other industries such as Harnischfeger and recently with Buckbee." He said there had been agreement made with Harnischfeger Corp. to use $1,000,000 to aid the firm to construct buildings here that had not been made a matter of record.

He said he had "no quarrel" with the action but wanted to point out that such actions had been taken in the past also.

"I do not want to see anyone holding a club over any industry's head," Cox said in reference to land exchange with the North Western. "We are not trying to tell other industries in this town how to run their business."

City Manager Harvey reported to the Council that the North Western is soon to undertake a "feasibility study" as to the relocation of its operations in Escanaba.

Storm Retards DUS' Campaign

With the storm past, Delta United Service campaign workers are back at their rounds today in the Escanaba residential areas and in the townships of Delta County, reports Robert Barron, campaign chairman.

"It will be necessary to extend the drive one additional week," said Barron "because of the loss of several days when the storm made it too difficult for campaign workers to make their rounds."

"We want to give all workers enough time to make a complete canvass of the entire county, visiting all the persons who have not given to DUS at their place of employment."

"Eleven agencies which serve the youth, the health and the welfare needs of Delta County depend on this DUS drive to finance their 1967 operations. We have to contact everyone in Delta County to be sure that these agencies have enough money to operate next year."

Barron said that DUS directors plan to complete the drive in the week of Dec. 12. Workers in the industrial, commercial, governmental, professional and educational divisions should be nearing completion of their pledge card campaigns, said Barron, and turning their collections into DUS headquarters.

Supporters of DUS, he said, are again reminded to place their DUS stickers in a window of their home so they will

Citizens Urge Pool In Center

Interested citizens of the community met with several members of the recreation board and architects at the Chamber of Commerce building last night to discuss local needs which should be provided for in the proposed new recreation building.

The group presented strong recommendations in favor of including the indoor swimming pool in the new recreation site. Also suggested was a solarium, or health room, with steam baths and exercise equipment.

The need for another gymnasium was discussed at length and the majority agreed that a gym which would also serve as a social room should be included.

James Henderson, physical education instructor at Bay De Noc Community College, was appointed chairman of the citizens' building committee. Any suggestions regarding the proposed project should be directed to him.

Henderson will meet with the young people of the community at the City Hall Monday, Dec. 12, at 7 p. m.

Tiny Car Thieves Come To Grief; Collared By Cops

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Police report the arrest of two young auto thieves so tiny one squatted on the floor to work the gas and brake while the other, perched atop a wash pan on the driver's seat, did the steering.

Inspector H. R. Ray said that the youngsters, 9 and 13, admitted using this technique to take 10 stolen automobiles on joyrides.

"We didn't believe they could do it," Ray said, "until they demonstrated their system."

The system came to grief however when one of the boys pushed the gas pedal instead of the brake. The car rammed a tree and police collared them.

Code For Youth, Parents Offered

A "Code of Responsibility for Parents and Youth," offered by the Escanaba Area PTA Council, was presented to the City Council Thursday night by Mrs. Leo Niquette, PTA Council president.

She said it represented one and one-half years of study by the PTA with the cooperation of student groups.

The code covers: Moral Responsibilities, Conduct for Home Entertaining, Evenings Out, Rules for Dating, Home Responsibilities, Choosing Friends, Financial Responsibility, Clothing and Appearance, Movies-Literature, Use of Cars, and Smoking and Drinking.

Council Willing

Mrs. Niquette told the Council that the Code had been considered beginning with concern expressed about the absence of a curfew being sounded in Escanaba. The Code was completed in March this year. She expressed appreciation to Luther Barrett, Area Public Schools superintendent, for his cooperation.

Mayor Harold Vanlerberghe told the PTA Council ladies that the city is willing to "do anything it can to help—but I'm not certain we can legislate morality."

The question of Escanaba's 10 p.m. curfew for juveniles raised doubts that its sounding would help the situation.

City Manager George Harvey pointed out that the city through Club 314 activities, the schools, the churches and other organizations, sponsor events that keep youngsters out after curfew hour.

Wake Up Parents

"The curfew won't wake up the parents" to their responsibilities, he thought. When children are picked up by police for being out after curfew, many parents won't come to the police station for them.

"The problem is more far-reaching than a curfew," the city manager said.

Mayor Vanlerberghe, father of a family including teenagers, said he believes that parents need to exert their own discipline. If parents insisted their children be home at a certain hour and make it stick there would be no problem, he believes.

There was discussion with the Council of methods of distributing additional copies of the Code in the community.

"You tell us how this Council can uphold your responsibility as parents," Mayor Vanlerberghe said.

Mrs. Niquette said that some parents did not receive copies because students tore them up

May Improve Dog Shelter

The need for a better located and more suitable shelter for stray dogs impounded by the authorities in Delta County is being explored with the cooperation of the Humane Society, it is reported by Escanaba City Manager George Harvey.

Harvey's report to the City Council on the situation was made after he had attended a meeting of the Humane Society, Delta County Prosecutor Nicholas P. Chapka was also in attendance.

"Some years ago we agreed to allow the sheriff's department to utilize land at the city dumping grounds to construct a shelter for the dogs that are picked up by the dog warden," the city manager said.

"This structure was built under the supervision of the Sheriff and the City paid for the materials used. Apparently there is a question as to whether this is the best location for such an operation, and the members of the Humane Society are looking around for land that would be in their opinion more easily accessible and would provide the needs of the animals, such as water, and so forth."

"When they find a suitable location they will have a shelter designed that they hope can be built there. In the meantime we will try to keep the present shelter from falling apart," Harvey continued.

The city's attendant at the city dumping ground, now a sanitary landfill operation, takes care of the animals as they are brought in. Should the Humane Society decide to relocate the dog shelter, it would have to find an attendant, Harvey reported.

Concentrator Enlarged One Quarter

Groveland Mine To Increase Capacity

Expansion of the multimillion dollar Groveland Mine plant of the Hanna Mining Co. near Randville, is underway, according to Kurth Kuehlthau, of Iron River, district manager for Hanna mines.

Contractor for the construction job is the Bechtel Co. with headquarters at San Francisco, which has awarded several subcontracts to Iron Mountain area firms for work on the project, which will not be completed until the end of 1967.

Hanna Mining Co. in Cleveland issued the following statement on the expansion project.

Few Additional Employees
"With improvements made in recent years by both capital expenditures and operating procedures, the pellet plant at Groveland now has more capacity than the concentrator can provide."

Work is now underway to modify the Groveland concentrator and bring the two plants' capacities into balance. This work is expected to be completed by the end of next year.

"It will result in a few additional employees."

"The plant will ultimately have the capacity to produce approximately 2,000,000 tons of high-grade pellets."

Pellet production is now about 1,400,000 tons annually. The additional employment will be nominal, Hanna officials said, with most new Groveland workers being transferred from Hanna Iron County mines which have been closed.

350 Employed
Currently, the Groveland Mine employs about 350 persons on a 24-hour, three-shift operations basis. The Groveland plant opened in 1960 shipping concentrated ore. In 1963, the pelletizing unit was placed into production.

All pellet shipments are made by rail to the Chicago & North Western Railway dock in Escanaba. After the lake shipping closes for the winter the pellets are stockpiled at the Groveland Mine.

Other pelletizing plants in the Upper Peninsula, all operated by the Cleveland Cliffs Iron Co. are at mines in Marquette county — the Empire, Humboldt, Republic and Pioneer.

Tourist Assn. Aid Backed

The chairman of a former advisory committee to the Upper Michigan Tourist Association issued a statement today relating to the association's fiscal program. Jim Gooch of Marquette said, "It is my understanding that some persons have confused our committee's long-range recommendations for handling the fiscal affairs of UMTA with the immediate financial concerns of the organization."

Gooch, regional director for Michigan State University's Continuing Education Service, said the advisory committee recommended changes in financing and programming that could require a year or more for implementation.

"It is my understanding," he said, "that the Association's officers are taking steps to implement some of these changes. At the same time, the officers are seeking a continuation of financial support to take care of immediate opportunities and obligations, during this transitional period. I would hope that all who are concerned with the recreation business will support both of these efforts," Gooch said.

Plumbers Toss Monkey Wrench

The troubled progress of the Escanaba harbor master building project has been delayed again, this time by the toss of a plumber's wrench into the machinery.

The city administration had sought to have the building well under construction this year. The cost is estimated at $250,000 with half of the total to be paid by the Michigan Waterways Commission.

The building will be located near the yacht basin and will house public toilets for that area of Ludington as well as the quarters for the harbor master.

The City of Escanaba asked for bids for the project and rejected the only one received as too high after consulting with the Waterways Commission. It was decided to have the city public works crew do the work to keep the costs within estimates.

"However, trouble was encountered with the plumbers, who claimed that we could not install the plumbing in this building," City Manager George Harvey informed the City Council. "After checking with the Plumbing Inspectors of the State of Michigan, this was found to be true."

"The only alternative we now have is to invite bids on this plumbing work. We are therefore sending out bid forms to be opened on Dec. 15," Harvey said.

Meanwhile, the city is engaged in putting in the footing and concrete block walls for the building, and in installing the septic tank.

"We hope this delay will not put us too far behind so that the weather will prevent us from finishing the work by spring," the city manager added.

School Election Date To Be Set

CARNEY—Date of a school district reorganization election for northern Manistowick County is expected to be set at a meeting of the Intermediate School Board in Manistowick Dec. 14.

Supt. Floyd Paronto said election precincts will be established in each of the three school districts involved. Election workers and canvassers would be named later.

Residents of Carney-Nadeau, Manistowick and Powers, Spalding school districts will vote on whether to merge the three districts. Paronto said the election would be scheduled before March 16.

The election was ordered by the reorganization committee of the Michigan Dept. of Education.

Advisory Planning:

Citizens Named As Participants

An Escanaba Citizens Advisory Committee on Planning will be organized at a meeting to be held in the City Hall at 8 p. m. Thursday, Dec. 8.

The names of 25 persons who have indicated willingness to participate in the work of the committee were listed by the City Council at its meeting last night.

Mayor Harold Vanierbergh expressed appreciation of the city to the citizens for their cooperation and said that if additional persons were interested their names would also be considered for appointment.

City Manager George Harvey said the committee is being developed as part of the Workable Program for Community Improvement and the city's participation in the federal program.

Select Own Chairman
Councilman Edward Cox voiced the opinion that the Citizens Advisory Planning committee should be empowered to name its own executive committee and organize into subcommittees.

Mayor Vanierbergh concurred and said he thought the group should select its own chairman of the various subcommittees and make its own advisory reports to the Council.

Working with the citizens group will be City Engineer John Dulek, the city's planning representative, and Howard Semle, administrative aide to the city manager.

"This is certainly a very important committee and we need their help," said Mayor Vanierbergh.

"We are obliged to have such a committee under the federal program and we will look to the committee suggestions. We will seek to have the citizens tell us what the community wants," he said.

Listed as persons willing to serve on the committee were: Robert N. Jensen, Elaine E. Nam, Earl T. Owen, Forrest Henales, Mary Jane Wertz, Augustus P. Logan, Dr. William Hennes, Roger T. The Voters Lose

The map of the legislative districts of the Upper Peninsula looks as though abstractionism had escaped from art and invaded politics. Downstate it's even worse.

This is the result of the Austin-Kleiner plan of apportionment.

It is said in defense of the plan that it was necessitated by the U. S. Supreme Court's rule of one-man, one-vote. In other words that legislative districts must be composed of equal population.

There can be no quarrel with this principle of one-man, one-vote. It states a basic concept completely compatible with democratic government, although there are situations in the formula of representation that might well be considered as a factor in apportionment.

And there cannot be an exactitude in equal apportionment of population to legislative districts, nor is that necessary under the law nor under common sense. Population keeps changing. The Austin-Kleiner apportionment plan, however, will be the law for the next 10 years.

Richard Austin and A. Robert Kleiner were members of the Legislative Apportionment Commission (4 Democrats, 4 Republicans) created by the Michigan Constitutional Convention of 1963. The commission adopted another apportionment plan but when the U. S. Supreme Court decreed one-man, one-vote in 1964 the Michigan Supreme Court ruled the first plan invalid and gave the commission two days to hustle up a new one. Unable to agree, the commissioners were asked to submit suggestions to the Supreme Court, which approved the plan submitted by Democrats Austin and Kleiner as most nearly meeting the equal population goal.

The Republicans charged gerrymandering (manipulation of district boundaries to favor one political party) and the Democrats' capture of the State Legislature in 1964 was certainly helped by the new apportionment.

In 1965 the Michigan Supreme Court granted a Republican petition to refer the plan to the Legislative Apportionment Commission for further action, the need for haste before an election being past. The commission deadlocked on changes and the Michigan Supreme Court the next year ruled that Austin-Kleiner met federal and state needs.

A suit in the U. S. Supreme Court said the Michigan apportionment "denies fair and effective representation to residents of certain areas of the state by establishing legislative districts of distorted, unnatural shapes which break up natural political groupings and communities of interest."

Needless violation of the Michigan Constitution's requirements for consideration of county and city lines in apportionment was also charged, and the suit cited that even Austin and Kleiner intended that their proposal would be a "negotiated document" and not a final plan.

The U. S. Supreme Court has just dismissed the appeal attacking the Austin-Kleiner plan as a gerrymander. This sets up as Michigan's apportionment plan the Austin-Kleiner proposal which was approved by the Michigan Supreme Court 4-3 in 1966 with one justice abstaining.

Michigan Attorney General Frank J. Kelley says the U. S. Supreme Court's decision is "another in a long series upholding the principle of one-man, one-vote." It does no such thing. It uses a sensible principle as an excuse for a botchy system of apportionment which violates the natural geography of Michigan's political organization and which makes the citizens' votes much less representative because of these distortions than they could be made by any small population imbalances needed to effect districting by county lines, city lines and other established boundaries.

The Michigan Supreme Court has by this action become the state's apportionment agency. This was not intended by the makers of the constitution and it does not serve the public interest. With the Michigan Supreme Court's history of decision along political party lines the prospect is poor all around.

Give Spirit Meaning

By RAY CROMLEY

ON THE CAMBODIAN BORDER, South Viet Nam (NEA)— "What do I want for Christmas? My wife asked me the same thing.

"What I want is to be still around — alive — at Christmas. Other things seem secondary." The lieutenant went back to writing a letter. He's heard from his wife that she's received no allotments for more than two months and had no money. He was trying to figure out how to strengthen that bureaucratic foul-up.

You sit, as here, on the roof of a building with the flood water up to the eaves and rising. The man you're with expects a raid aimed at wiping out the post because the Viet Cong know the precarious position the flood has put the unit in — with much of the ammunition under 12 feet of water.

A couple of so miles out the area is under Viet Cong control. This VC territory is the land in which these few men live and operate and die by night.

In this situation, human life takes on more meaning. You think how you might make your own life more useful after this is over. You wonder if you've been a good son, husband, father.

But most of all these men talk about the Vietnamese child who should have an operation. The boys and girls who need a better chance at school and of the farmers who live with the hope of bettering their lot.

Their proudest talk was not of successful ambushes but of a new school they had helped build.

A few miles away I went unannounced to a primary school, broke unwittingly into the midst of a class session. In the corner, inconspicuously, was a GI. He was helping out with the English teaching in his off hours. "The teacher really teaches the class. I only help with the pronunciation," he said.

No one organized this. It wasn't official civil action. The private came because he wanted to come — as often as he could.

This is what Christmas is all about. The Jews who were born in a manger spent most of his ministry telling men that they must help other men — in the best way they could.

The gift these GIs are bringing to South Viet Nam is their spirit of love for people in need. It's not the number of school buildings they've helped to build, but the fact that they want to help build schools. It's not the medicine they give to people or the candy they hand out to children but the thought in their hearts that makes them want to give the medicine and candy.

Jesus said no man hath greater love than to lay down his life for his friend. These men are laying their lives on the line.

If they were not doing this we would all be a little bit smaller, knowing that we had failed a people wanting freedom.

But they are also doing something more. They are giving of themselves. There is no greater Christmas gift that a man can give.

Richard Henry Lee of Virginia made the formal motion for independence in the Continental Congress.

Felheim Analyzes Humor

What Makes Bard Great?

By JEAN WORTH

Will Shakespeare wrote so well that even today many people think that no one man could have done it and that his works must be the creations of several geniuses.

More people study Shakespeare's writings today, 350 years after, than ever before as they try by analysis and emulation to acquire some of his great gift of writing.

What was his magic? What qualities in his writings make them interesting to so many cultures, even today and crown him as the greatest of all writers in history?

He lived in a very different time, of course, and he wrote plays based upon earlier plays or stories. There were no actresses in his time; boys played women's parts.

Marvin Felheim, professor of English at the University of Michigan, told the recent Weekend with the Professors in Escanaba about the comedy in Shakespeare's plays. It was the sort of thing that comes only out of the academy because most readers do not know Shakespeare well enough to compare the characters he created and to trace the patterns in his writing.

"All of Shakespeare's comedies," said Felheim "and with all the girls married. Women are the creative elements in his plays. He says that marriage — given humanity as it is — is about the best thing that can happen; that it is a biological need."

"There is thinking that Shakespeare's classics can be played only by great actors. This is too bad. It gives us aging John Gielgud as Benedict, a youth.

"Joan of Arc wore men's clothing. In the 16th century (Shakespeare's time, Joan lived in the 15th century) it was a sin to wear men's clothing. Yet in Twelfth Night we have Dame Edith Evans, a bosomy Rosalind, going off into the forest.

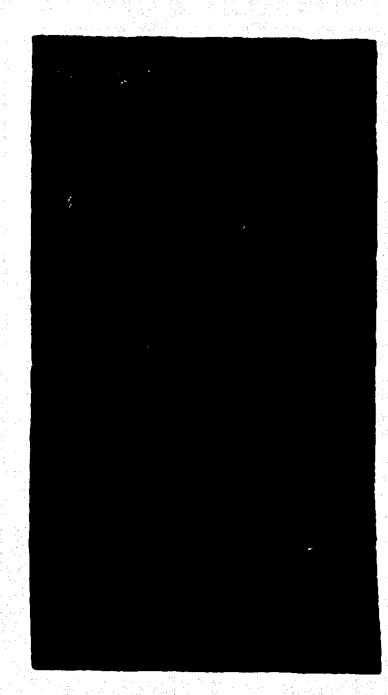

Few Mothers "There were only two mothers in Shakespeare. Gertrude, Hamlet's mother, and Voland, the mother of Carolanus. There are many fathers in Shakespeare, but few mothers. His young women all triumph unless killed off, like Ophelia in Hamlet and Desdemona in Othello. The tragedy happens to the men in Shakespeare."

"His young girls are the Lolites of today. Juliet was only 14, her father was 90. We are always dismissing the villain in Shakespeare. Like Shylock. He is never punished, he is just told to go away."

"In Midsummer Night's Dream we have four love stories in beautiful poetry. This is a comedy about love but it refers to Cressida, who is a symbol for loose and diseased women, to Thelma, a suicide; to Dido, a witch, and to Medea, who kills her children and serves them to Jason for dinner."

"Every character in Twelfth Night is given money or receives money. This is a comedy about love! He's saying something extra about the human condition. Jacques says that one marriage won't last two months without money."

Double Takes "We should see Shakespeare as a multiple thing. American producers have tended to take one phase but not two, three or four; we play it with one airy touch, but we miss the rest.

"No one knows what it was like to be an Elizabethan. I can't be at home in Shakespeare's world; all I can do is try to make him at home in mine."

"His plays are still the most popular in the world. Our writers try to imitate him. Shakespeare must be re-interpreted. We don't object to a modern production of his plays (his dramas in a modern setting) but we do object to producing his plays singmindedly and with so much left out."

In a digression that answered questions about the Greek Theater at Ypsilanti of which he is a director, Dr. Felheim provided some of the brightest moments of a lively two hours of performance.

Greek Theater

The Greek Theater received the Michigan Community Achievement Award for Michigan Week in 1966. In its first summer season, a professional company directed by Alexis Solomitis, former director of the National Theater of Greece, presented Judith in Aschylus' tragedy, "The Oresteia" and Bert Lehr in Aristophanes' comedy, "The Birds."

Fifty thousand persons went to a temporary theater on the baseball field of Eastern Michigan University and 25,000 of them came from outside Michigan, mostly from the Chicago area. Nearly 90 drama critics came from the East and other parts of the country to see what the modern Ypsilanti could provide in ancient drama.

Men in Masks The classic Greeks theater were open air theaters with seating for such immense audiences that the actors couldn't be heard by everyone so they wore masks with small megaphones built into them. There was little stage equipment and the actors and chorus played the drama, with all the women's parts taken by men, as in the Elizabethan theater of Shakespeare's time.

A rich literature of Greek plays has been preserved although many have been lost and it is to revive these masterpieces that the Greek Theater at Ypsilanti was created.

The organization plans to erect a center for year-around Greek drama, but this is the outside, optimistic view of the situation. Felheim had some intimate realities to report to his weekend group.

(The Detroit Free Press reported that the theater budgeted nearly $800,000 for its first season, but that its bills ran over this estimate and that it has $300,000 in unpaid bills.) Modern Drama

There were problems in staging the Greek plays, said Felheim. The producers knew what the Greek theater itself was like and the costumes of the actors, but they needed translations of the language from the Greek and they needed dances and music that would be meaningful today. They had the music composed on a computer and Martha Graham was engaged to do the choreography. "We thought that the best of our culture and the best of the Greeks' should mesh," said Felheim. "I think that eventually we will have to translate Shakespeare the way we have done with the Greek."

In the old shell game the barker cries, "Now you see it, now you don't," and places the pea under one of the shells and moves them around rapidly.

South's four spade contract looks like a cinch. True, the trumps are all in one hand but South can lose only two diamonds and the ace of clubs. Now let's see how East and West operated the old shell game against South. For the sake of the record, South was a good player but he fell for a swindle.

East looked over dummy and saw quickly that a trump honor in his partner's hand was too much to hope for. Then East overlooked his partner's king of diamonds with the ace and returned the nine spot.

South played low. West put the ten on his partner's nine and played the queen.

South thought for awhile. It looked as if West had started with six diamonds and that East would be able to ruff. South decided to make sure of the trick by ruffing with dummy's jack of trumps. He did and when all four trumps showed up in the East hand South was down one.

We can't criticize South's play at all. He knew that East might have been fooling in the diamond suit but the chance of a 6-3 diamond break was 17 per cent and the chance of a 4-4 spade break only 10 per cent.

In other words, South's play of the jack of trumps gave him a 60 per cent chance to make his contract. A ruff with a low trump would only have given

By WALTER C. PARKES Youth knows all the answers. Maturity is when he questions those answers.

It must have been a married philosopher who first warned: "Look before you leap."

When you hear a young fellow bragging about what a cinch his job is, it's a cinch he's not going anywhere.

Teeth Cannot Help When In The Glass

Dear Ann Landers: We are newlyweds who have reached an impasse and have agreed to abide by your decision.

My husband has a partial plate. I knew this when I married him but it made no difference. The problem is that my husband refuses to allow me in the bathroom when he is brushing his plate. It hurts me to be shut out.

I feel a married couple should be completely open with each other in every way. I have never refused my husband anything he has asked of me. Last night I begged him to let me see him without his partial but he said, "No." Please settle this disagreement in my favor because it means a lot to me.—ALMOST PARADISE

Dear Almost: I believe married couples should be completely open, too, but what you are after is not "openness." It is, instead, a violation of your husband's privacy.

Too much togetherness can suffocate a marriage. People need to be alone. If the man is self-conscious about being seen without his partial plate, for heaven's sake respect his feelings. And please read the next letter. It may help you view the situation differently.

Dear Ann Landers: Three months ago, my husband had dentures made. I was happy when he finally agreed to put his mouth in shape because he has been needing it for a long time.

The problem is he will not keep his teeth in. He looks about 20 years older without his dentures and I hate to look at him. He also spoils my appetite when he takes his teeth out and gums his food.

I have asked him repeatedly why he keeps removing his dentures and he claims it takes a while to get used to them. He says nobody who has his own teeth knows how it feels to have plates.

Please, Ann, please print my letter and your advice because I see other men going around toothless and I just can't understand it.—BAFFLED BELLE

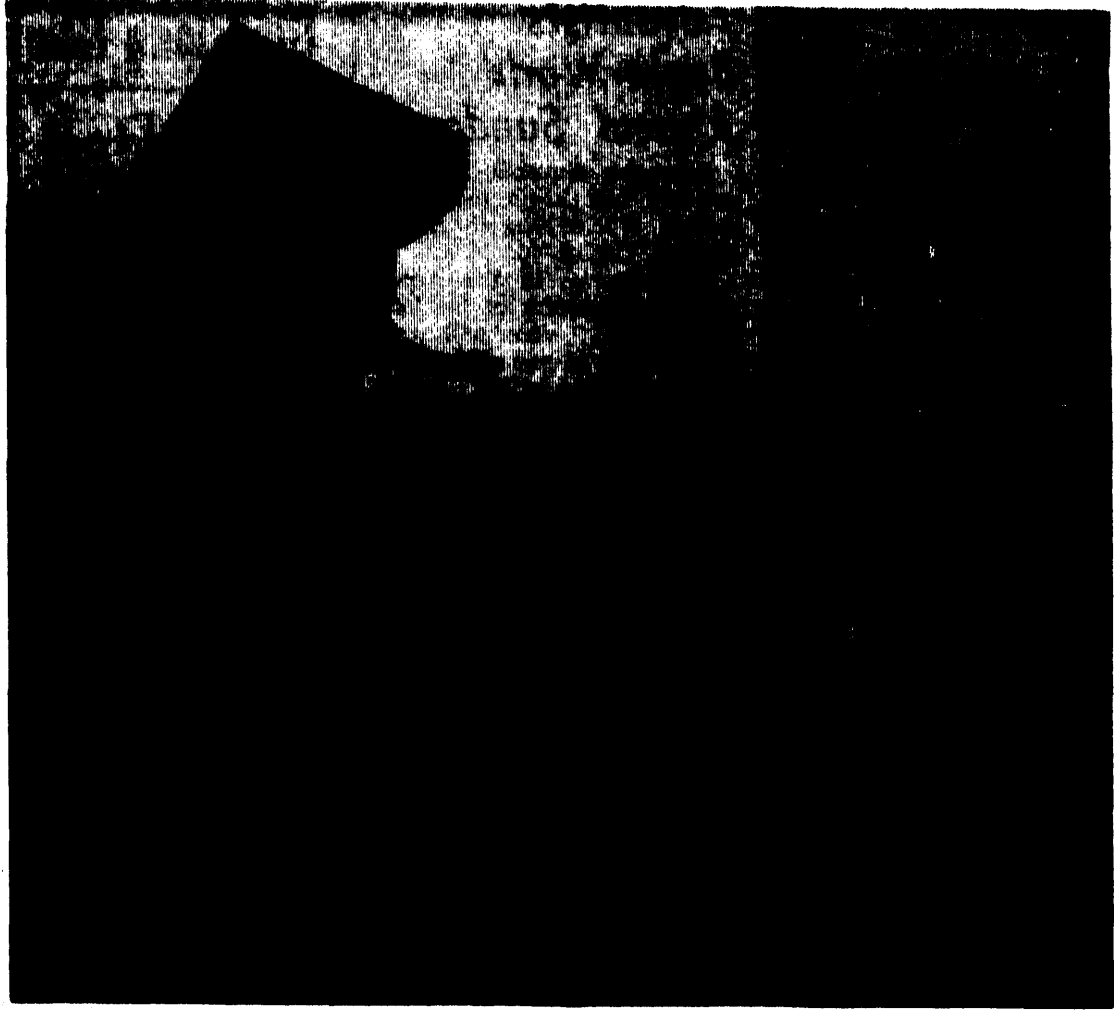

Dear Belle: Your husband's dentures are probably uncomfortable. He should go back to the dentist and get them adjusted. Teeth cannot help your husband eat better or look better if they are in a glass. Urge him to make an appointment at once.

When they were ready Linda called the cab office. She was told "You'll have to wait, I don't have a cab going in that direction." (To St. Anne's School) Now that's what I call service. I'll admit I'm only an occasional customer of the cab company, so this should be a warning to others if you ever need a cab in an emergency you'd better call the one in Gladstone because the Escanaba taxi may not be going in that direction!

Election Victory Dinner

Delta's Republicans Toast Winners

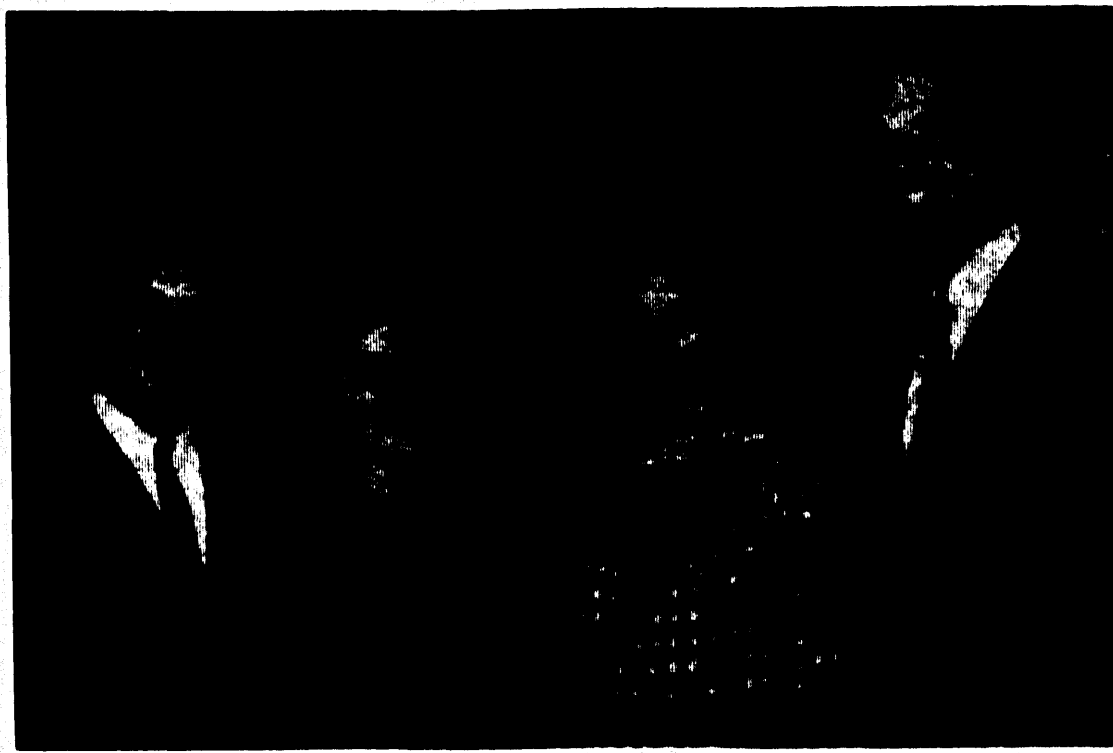

Delta County Republicans toasted victory in the Nov. 8 election at a dinner at Marco's Thursday evening attended by 150 persons.

Delta County Republican Chairman Arthur Neiman presided and the honorees were Congressman-elect Philip Ruppe, of Houghton and Mrs. Ruppe, and State Representative-elect Charles Varnum of Manistique and Mrs. Varnum.

"These are critical years and we can do nothing without your support," said Neiman in introducing Republican county committee leaders: Mrs. Harold Johnson, vice chairman; Miss Mary Woodard, secretary; John Tackman, treasurer; and Forrest Henslee, finance chairman.

The dinner was arranged by the Delta County Republican Womens Club, Mrs. Rene Labre, president; Mrs. James Ferguson, vice president; Mrs. Ray Richards treasurer and Mrs. Bernette Mills, secretary.

Year of Effort
"These men were underdogs when they came on the scene," said Neiman "but they were undaunted and put in a lot of time and won. Phil Ruppe is going to be our spokesman in Washington, serving not every whim and caprice of the electorate, but in a way that is best for the area."

Ruppe said "I really began campaigning for this job at a meeting at The Dells in December of 1965 when candidates for the office were asked to state their qualifications and the effort they would make if nominated."

"I hope that I can do the job for you which you deserve."

"It seems that I must have been an underdog because I have heard so many expressions of surprise since Nov. 8 and people saying 'Since you were the underdog you certainly did all right.' It was amazing the way the Republican party ran in Michigan. I am sure I was elected because we had a team victory."

"When I am in Washington I hope for your support and your suggestions. The 11th District has 22 counties and I couldn't possibly get to know everyone."

"These should be two wonderful years for the Republicans. They will see a chance for Governor Romney to get the presidential nomination. The Republicans control the state senate and have a chance to organize the House. I think we are going to win the Presidency in 1968."

Thanks Voters
"In Washington I've looked at the Rayburn Building offices, but I won't draw an office there; I'm more apt to be in the Longworth or Cannon building. There are 70 new freshmen in Congress. We know a bit about it and we'll at least be enthusiastic guides."

"When I campaigned here I was told that if I worked hard I'd get 42 per cent of the Delta County vote and if I didn't work I'd get 40 per cent. I didn't work out that way. I didn't win the county, but my opponent's lead was cut so much that it made my election possible and for that I am very grateful."

Varnum Humorous
Representative-elect Charles Varnum said "I'll say I was an underdog. The Governor called me 'John' and my opponent called me 'Clarence.' I worked to keep down primary opposition but they told me 'What do you mean by primary opposition? No one will run against you!'"

"It was a long time from June to Nov. 21 without a paycheck and I'm back at school teaching until the New Year. 'I thought that if I got 40 per cent of the vote in Delta I had a good chance to win. If I had got 40 per cent I would have won by 90 votes. But in Escanaba I got 49 1/2 per cent of the vote and in Delta county 48 per cent."

Plans Escanaba Office
"There are 25 new Republican members of the House in the Legislature and most of them are younger than the men they succeed. People have asked me how much I'll get paid and I said I wasn't sure, but that it's better than teaching school. I'll get $15,000 salary and $2,500 for expenses."

"The Legislature faces some real tough jobs. No. 1 is fiscal reform. The Republicans welcome the chance to organize the House and take Michigan through the difficult period of the next two years."

"With half the district's population here in Delta I want to serve you and plan to set up an office here. We worked too hard to get here not to work now that we're in."

The dinner was entertained by Peter Adamini and Mrs. Albert Gossan of the cast of "The Music Man" to be presented by the Players of Nov. 5-6-8-10 at the Escanaba Area High School auditorium.

Gales Lash At Europe; Ships Call For Help

LONDON (AP) — Radio distress signals crackled from at least half a dozen ships today as gales lashed the British Isles and surrounding seas.

The winds, gusting to nearly 130 miles an hour, blew heavy trucks off roads and left a trail of havoc.

Snow and heavy rain hit England, Ireland, Scotland and Wales.

Among the ships reporting trouble were the 7,176-ton Panamanian steamer Humboldt in the North Sea; the 900-ton Norwegian freighter Vinland off the Holyhead coast; the English lightship Varne in the Channel; the 2,739-ton British freighter Grit, the 1,946-ton Egyptian freighter Helwan and a Greek ship reported to be the 1,287-ton all in the Irish Sea.

Rain splattered Italy from the Alps to Sicily and waters rose again at Venice and Florence, the chief centers stricken by the great flood of Nov. 4.

Snow piled deep in Alpine passes, delaying trains.

Radio Moscow said some of the severest winter weather in years hit the Soviet far east. Soviet broadcasts reported a blizzard has been raging six days over the town of Magadan. Hurricane winds have piled snowdrifts rooftop-high. Ground traffic is paralyzed, and only a few planes have been able to land.

PanAm Strike Talks Face A Noon Deadline

NEW YORK (AP) — Negotiators for Pan American World Airways and the Transport Workers Union resumed negotiations today in an attempt to head off a strike at noon that would halt the line's operation.

The bargainers had talked for 19 hours, far into the morning hours, without any word of progress, then resumed the meeting after a four-hour sleep break.

"The outlook is dim," was the comment from a federal mediator during the recess.

Hiawatha Levy Is Explained

An excess levy beyond the requirements of the May 1, 1964 bond issue was made in Hiawatha township school district, the Michigan Municipal Finance Commission has reported in response to an inquiry of the Daily Press.

Review of the Hiawatha debt administration was made by the Finance Commission in connection with a request to transfer debt retirement monies to the building and site fund.

The school district built an addition to the school building and did some remodeling. Contract bids were higher than anticipated and the district requested the transfer to help retire outstanding bills on the contract so consolidation could proceed without debt outstanding, the Commission writes.

The excess levy resulted in an approximate balance of $18,000 remaining in the May 1, 1964 debt retirement fund. The commission granted a transfer of approximately $14,800 so the contractor's bills could be paid. Atty. E. Boomie Mikrut reported for the Commission.

The district became consolidated with the Manistique district July 25.

Plan Baskets For Children At Christmas

The Women's Club community service committee is busy with preparations for "Christmas for Children" baskets to be distributed just before the holidays.

In previous years the committee coordinated distribution of baskets to needy families, with help from other service groups. The project became "too gigantic" so the children baskets will be prepared in-kind.

Members of the club are contributing mittens, toys and money. A direct solicitation is not planned, but individual contributions may be made to Mrs. Alvin Nelson for the baskets. A million tree will be placed at the Ford Garage.

Names of persons to be included in the Christmas list may be called to Mrs. Nelson.

Briefly Told

The Social Club will hold a Christmas party Dec. 7 at 6 p. m. in the VFW clubrooms. Gifts will be exchanged.

The Wednesday bowling group will hold a party at the Surf Wednesday evening. An exchange of $1 gifts is scheduled.

The 4-H speech club met at the home of Mrs. G. L. Bousch on Tuesday, with each member giving a talk on Germany. At the next meeting Australia will be discussed.

First and second year sewing students met Nov. 28 at the home of Mrs. Glenn Bignall and elected Dianne Delfers, president, Donna DeMars, vice president, Mary Cochran, treasurer, Karen Bignall, secretary, Marie Hentschel, recreation leader and Gail Schwartz, reporter.

Public Safety officers were called at 8:30 p. m., Wednesday to the John Schuur residence in Gulliver, when a chimney fire occurred. There was damage to chimney mortar and some smoke damage, officers said.

Robert J. LaPlante, Frank Germany, is expected to arrive this week for a short visit with his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Sheehan. He has been in the diplomatic service 17 years and recently returned to duty after spending a year on leave of absence studying at the graduate school of the University of Stockholm, Sweden. First Methodist WSCS Enjoys Holiday Program

"Christmas in Many Lands" was the theme of the meeting of the Woman's Society of the First Methodist Church Thursday afternoon. "Celebrating the happy holiday of Christmas is an almost universal custom, and many of the traditions belonging to the day are universal too," Mrs. Charles Kaiser, speaker, said.

Members and friends left Escanaba in spirit and traveled to England where the Yule Log is brought in on Christmas Eve to bring good fortune to those who sat upon it. Then traveling on they stopped for a moment in Mexico, where the climate is too warm for Santa Claus, but the old Aztec god of the sun and air, symbolized as a feathered serpent, takes his place as the deer of good deeds.

They also paused for a moment in Spain, Poland and China to help celebrate Christmas by poems and carol singing. Mrs. Konstantin Wipp played the beautiful "O Holy Night," and the group sang many beloved carols.

Mrs. Luther Barrett, devotional leader, read the Christmas sermon by Peter Marshall.

During the business meeting, the members voted to send a subscription to the "Together" magazine to the Carnegie Library. Used Christmas cards will also be collected to send to the Newberry State Hospital.

Hostesses were members of the Ruth Circle, Mesdames Floyd Bryers, Aubrey Berg and Luther Barrett.

Judy Marohnic Bride Of T. P. Vanlerberghe

Miss Judy A. Marohnic became the bride of Thomas P. Vanlerberghe during a double ring ceremony performed Saturday, Nov. 26 at the Bethel Free Church in Gladstone.

The Rev. Gerald Brady officiated at the nuptials at 2 o'clock in the afternoon for the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Marohnic of Brampton and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Emerald Vanlerberghe. Adventists Begin World Appeal Sunday

Escanaba Seventh-day Adventists will begin their 63rd annual World Service Appeal Sunday, Dec. 4.

Participating in the appeal will be volunteers of the local congregation, who will personally visit homes of the community in the next four weeks. All solicitors for the Escanaba campaign will be identified, unpaid, Seventh-day Adventist volunteers.

By using volunteers and already existing channels for handling the funds, the church is able to eliminate overhead expenses. With their appeal, they also will be bringing Christmas music, announced Elder John Erhard, pastor of the local church.

Funds solicited will go toward extending medical, welfare and educational services in 189 countries, including the U.S.

Besides welfare activities, the church operates 128 hospitals and 146 clinics, treating nearly four million persons annually; supports its own school system enrolling 370,000 students; and publishes Christian literature in 228 languages.

In This Corner

with Ray Crandell

Bay Port, coached by former Eskymos and Northern Michigan athlete Fred Boddy, lost its first game in the Northeastern Wisconsin Conference to West DePere this week, 71-55. Boddy has taken over the basketball coaching chores at the Howard Sarnico School located just outside Green Bay after highly successful coaching stints at Champion and Marquette Baraga in the U. P.

Trout Creek, the only team in the Upper Peninsula to compile a perfect regular season record last year, is competing as an independent this season after dropping from the Percupine Mountain Conference ranks. Coach Bruce Warren, in his 16th season at Trout Creek, has two seniors back from the team that ran up 25 straight victories before bowing to Covert in the state Class D championship game in Lansing. The veterans are Don Besonen and Dan Fertula. Biggest chore will be to fill the shoes of Bob Gale, 6 foot 5 inch all-state choice who is a freshman at Michigan State this season.

Barry Pierson of St. Ignace, last year's Upper Peninsula high school back of the year, may break into the University of Michigan lineup as a defensive halfback next fall. Pierson, 6 feet 1 inch and 180 pounds, was a brilliant quarterback at St. Ignace under Coach Ron Rubick in 1965 when he completed 77 of 119 passes for 1,011 yards and 10 touchdowns, gained 548 yards in 69 carries for 10 more touchdowns. He also scored five touchdowns on punt returns to lead the Saints to a perfect 8-0 season record.

A quick check on past records indicates that the Bark River-Harris basketball victory over Powers-Spalding (64-56) earlier this week was the first in many years, and could be the first in the history of the series between the schools. Going back to the 1953 season, the Broncos had lost 19 straight games to the Tigers.

Wakefield continues to look like the team to beat in Upper Peninsula Class B basketball this season. The Cardinals knocked Besonen out of the undefeated ranks, 74-47, for their third straight victory of the season. Guard Roger Norkoll paced a balanced Wakefield attack with 23 points and Al Inka tossed in 10 while grabbing 16 rebounds.

The lone Upper Peninsula player on the Albion College basketball roster this season is Chad Bont, 6 foot 4 inch freshman from Sault Ste. Marie. Coach Dean Decker's eagles open their season against Eastern Michigan at Ypsilanti this week.

Con Zagodzinski, 6 foot 5 inch senior and co-captain of the Northern Michigan Wildcats, will be at a starting forward position when Coach Stan Albeck's quint opens the season at Bradley Saturday night. Rounding out the lineup will be freshman Ted Rose at the other forward, Bill Driskell at center, co-captain Bill Koski of Champion and Dave Kovack at guards. Other former U. P. prep players on the traveling squad are Don Jacobetti of Negaunee and Les Coduti of Ishpeming.

Curt Marker, 6 foot 2 inch, 245 pound offensive guard from Minneapolis on the Northern Michigan University football team, has accepted an invitation to play in the annual Blue-Gray football game at Montgomery, Ala., Dec. 24, as a member of the Blue team. Marker, named Northern's most valuable player this fall, is the first Wildcat lineman in history to be picked to compete in a major postseason game.

Two members of the Detroit Lions football team, Gale Cogdill and Larry Hand, were forced to spend Sunday night in an abandoned cabin eight miles from their host's hunting camp on the Tahquamenon River near Newberry because of the blizzard that blasted the region last weekend. The two gridgers and a hunting companion, Kenneth Teyson, encountered trouble with their motorboat on the river in the heavy snowstorm and holed up in the cabin. A rescue party of 10 Conservation Department personnel reached the cabin Monday afternoon but the trio had already made its way to the main hunting camp.

Iron Mountain, a team to watch in the Great Northern scramble this season, notched its first conference triumph by defeating defending champion Stephenson, 60-51. Don Cooper and Brian Oulmette teamed up for 42 mountain points while John Gunderson paced Stephenson with 18, followed by Bruce Wong with 13 and Gene Lord 11.

Dan Scheuren, rugged Escanaba senior tackle, was named to both the offensive and defensive selections on an All-U. P. prep football team selected by regional coaches for WLUC-TV of Marquette. Honored with offensive team berths were Paul Miller of Escanaba and guard Dale Shandony of Holy Name. Dave McGuire of Engadine made the C-D team as an offensive tackle.

Packers, Cowboys Picked To Win Sunday's Pro Football Features

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK (AP) — Dallas was picked practically wrap up the Eastern title in the National Football League Sunday and the Green Bay Packers should clinch at least a tie in the West. The Buffalo Bills, coming on strong in the stretch, figure to even matters with Boston for an earlier defeat and nail down the American Football League's Eastern Division crown. Kansas City, with a bye, already had won the Western Division title. The old hand picker tries it once more (all games are Sunday unless otherwise indicated):

NFL
Dallas 20, St. Louis 9—Cowboys smell that Super Bowl cash. Teams played 10-10 tie earlier but that was hurt. Charley Johnson was hurt. Cards' tough defense will give Don Meredith the big rush but their offense hasn't produced a touchdown in the last two games. Cowboys pack too much punch.

Cleveland 41, New York 17—After that disaster in Washington the Giants are ready for anything. Browns are teetering on brink and can't afford another or loss after Thanksgiving Day in Dallas.

Green Bay 21, San Francisco 14—Packers still smarting from that 21-30 loss in San Francisco, their first loss. The 49ers have been averaging well over 30 points a game in last three outings, bombing Detroit 41-14. Chicago 14, Baltimore 10—Don't like either club here. Colts wobbling with John Unitas' sore arm lifting offense. Colts' offense only plus of Bears' sick offense. Baltimore in desperate position. Must win or Packers game next week means nothing.

Los Angeles 22, Detroit 10—Rams still dreaming of possible second-place finish if Colts collapse continues. Dick Bass run for 126 yards when Rams beat Lions 14-7 in October. Los Angeles defense has been red hot with front four playing "get the quarterback" game.

Philadelphia 24, Pittsburgh 14—Steelers have been tough lately, knocking off Browns and Cards before losing to Cowboys and Cards in 6-6 rematch. Eagles coming off a bye in a good spot to make a run for playoff in Miami with 6-5 record. Philadelphia was first game 24-14.

Minnesota 20, Atlanta 17—Vikings in bad mood after that close defeat by Green Bay, Falcons coming on week by week.

Oakland 21, New York 14—Get underway—Raiders were eliminated in West last week but Jets still have slim outside chance in East. Jets seldom do good on West Coast and Raiders have top pass defense against New York's best weapon, Joe Namath.

Buffalo 24, Boston 21—The Bills had their troubles early and so did Pats but both have been rolling recently. With everything hanging in the balance, we have to go with the Bills on solid line and better defense.

San Diego 21, Houston 17—Both teams out of the race. Oilers going with youth have been playing toughest teams in recent weeks. San Diego needs a win to stay over .500.
Denver 21, Miami 20—Welcome home Oiler! First trip of Oiler to Denver since the big explosion. Dick Wood passing for Dolphins who beat Denver earlier 24-7.

Winners Could Get $23,000 Each

Pro Gridders To Play For Record Payoff; Double Baseball Money

NEW YORK (AP) — Each player on the team winning the professional football championship may receive a bonus of $23,000, a record for a team sport.

The pay for two games would almost double the all-time high of $12,794 for a baseball World Series winner for a minimum of four games. The Los Angeles Dodgers of 1955 hold the baseball record.

When the National Football League and American Football League winners meet in the first Super Bowl at the 80,000-capacity Los Angeles Coliseum in early January, each winner will get a guaranteed $15,000 and each loser $7,500. That breaks down to $250 a minute for each of the winners.

If the NFL game is played in the big Cotton Bowl in Dallas, a strong possibility, the winning share should match the record of $9,000 by Cleveland for beating Baltimore in 1964. The AFL share would be smaller but the league set an all-time high a year ago when each Buffalo Bill got $5,100.

The mechanics of the Super Bowl game were announced Thursday night by Commissioner Pete Rozelle after both leagues accepted unanimously the recommendations of a joint committee.

"The weekend of Jan. 7-8 or the weekend of Jan. 15 are the likely dates," said Rozelle. "We are not able to announce a definite date at this time until we have talked more to the television people."

Rozelle said he would talk with all TV networks and hoped to settle the matter soon. NFL games are carried by CBS and AFL games by NBC.

It is possible that the new league title games will be played on the same day, Sunday, Jan. 1 as part of a unique doubleheader, starting in Buffalo or Boston and ending in Dallas or St. Louis.

As of now, the AFL game is to be played Monday, Dec. 26 in the home park of the Eastern Division winner. The NFL game is to be played Sunday, Jan. 1 in the home park of the Eastern Conference champ. It is expected the AFL date will be moved up to avoid a long layoff before the Super Bowl.

The Super Bowl agreement was for one year only, subject to review.

Although the AFL uses the two-point conversion rule and the NFL the one-point, there will be no two-point conversions in the Super Bowl. However, it will be tried in preseason exhibitions between the two leagues next summer.

The NFL also decided to stock the new franchise at New Orleans in the same manner as the Atlanta club was named last winter. Each team, except Atlanta, will give up three players. Although no owner has been named for the new franchise and no price set for the franchise, it will approximate the $5.5 million for Atlanta.

The date of the stocking has not been set.

Tigers Explode Against Alpha

ALPHA—The Powers-Spalding Tigers caught fire here Thursday night for a 91-32 victory over Alpha to even their season record at 2-2.

Coach Tom LaQuia's cagers ripped out to a 22-6 lead in the first period, spread it to 42-8 at halftime and coasted in with reserves. Twelve players saw action and 10 chipped in with points, headed by Stebbins with 23.

Powers also won the jayvee preliminary game.

Spartans Win Cage Opener

EAST LANSING (AP) — Lee Lafayette, a sophomore with the job of replacing 18-point-a-game Stan Washington in Michigan State's basketball lineup, came through with two points to spare Thursday night.

The 6-foot-6 forward from Grand Rapids tossed in 20 points, helping MSU win its season opener 77-75 over Western Michigan. He also hauled down nine rebounds.

"Lafayette was a very pleasant surprise," said Spartan Coach John Benington. "It was good for him to get off to that kind of a start. He did it on second effort under the backboards."

Lafayette has plenty to live up to. The Big Ten coaches have voted him most likely to be the conference's outstanding sophomore of the season. They also picked MSU, last year's runner-up, as the championship favorite.

"I was pleased with everybody's start," Benington added. An opening game, he said, is tougher than a championship game "because you don't know what to expect."

MSU, which lost 55-42 to Western in last season's opener, had little trouble this time. The lead changed hands five times in the first 34 minutes, but then the Spartans pulled steadily ahead, taking a 41-25 half-time lead.

A surge at the start of the second half moved MSU to a 30-point edge, 58-28, before the Broncos began coming back against the Spartan reserves. MSU's ball control decided the game. Each team hit in 33 per cent of its field goal attempts. Lafayette was 7-for-21 from the floor.

"Their defense hurt us," said Western Coach Sonny Means, who was Benington's assistant at MSU last year.

"They forced us out of what we were trying to do," he said. "I feel we normally shoot better."

Key man on defense, Benington said, was big Matthew Alth, a 6-foot-7, 230-pound senior from St. Louis, Mo.

"He comes up with the big play," Benington added.

Western faces Northern Illinois Saturday and Ball State next Wednesday.

Benington felt a victory by Western could have hurt the Broncos in their own league, the Mid-American Conference.

Winning over a Big Ten title contender, he said, would have put Means "on the hot spot."

A favorite of the crowd of 12,481 was 5-foot-7 Richie Jordan, a sophomore from Peaville, Jordan scored seven points and "played better defense than in practice," Benington said. "His size didn't hurt him a bit."

MSU plays South Dakota Saturday and in Wichita State Monday.

Wills Is Ready To Play Third With Pirates

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Banned from Los Angeles to Pittsburgh because he jumped the Dodgers' Japanese tour, Murrey Wills declared enthusiastically he is ready for "several more years" at his new position — third base.

"Leaving the Dodgers is by no means the end of the world," Wills said Thursday night after learning he had been traded to the Pirates for infielder-outfielder Bob Bailey, a one-time $175,000 bonus baby, and shortstop Gene Michael.

"Now that I'm traded I feel even more justified about leaving the tour. I know I can play third base for Pittsburgh."

"I think of myself as a shortstop, but they have Gene Alley. He's one of the finest. I'm no stranger at third base. I should be able to have several more years playing third. You last a lot longer at third. Harry Walker is my kind of manager. Pittsburgh will run and I'll be running."

The deal came suddenly and unexpectedly.

The Dodgers had disclosed earlier in the week that the 34-year-old Wills was available. His abrupt and early departure from Japan because of a leg injury angered Los Angeles owner Walter O'Malley, and the move went forth.

The Dodgers had been expected to send Wills to the New York Yankees. The Yankees, however, couldn't come up with the Dodgers' primary requirement — a shortstop.

Wills—who has had leg problems — will be determined to show he still has most of the speed and all of the daring that brought him the stolen base record.

"My right knee's coming along fine," he said. "It was badly sprained and twisted. It's bad rest. I'm on a weight program for both legs, and next spring both of them will be 100 per cent."

If so, Wills should improve on his 1965 record. He batted .373 — 15 points under his life time average — and stole just 28 bases while being caught 26 times. Last season was the first in seven that the night speedster didn't lead the league in stolen bases.

Cape Cod In Modern Dress

MODIFIED CAPE COD: A far cry from the traditional, box-like Cape Cod of the Colonial days, this modern version of that economical design, with two bedrooms on each

By ANDY LANG
The old Cape Cod cottage isn't what it used to be. The simple, basic plan of the Cape Cod has undergone many changes since Colonial days. In fact, the very simplicity of its design, always popular because of its economy features, has made it particularly adaptable to the requirements of present-day living.

Here's a modern Cape Cod, modest in size yet spacious enough to accommodate a fairly large family (it has four bedrooms). Architect Herman H.

available under the rafters of the main roof on each side of the upper bedrooms. The stair hall gives an impression of open space because the stair does not reach the upper level between two walls. The open railing with wood or wrought iron balusters contributes its share towards this point.

G-63 STATISTICS
Design G-63 is a 1½-story house, with a living room, dining room, kitchen, foyer, two bedrooms, a bathroom, a lavatory and a garage on the first floor. Total habitable area of that floor, not including the garage, is 1109 square feet. The two bedrooms and bath on the second floor make up 569 additional square feet. Over-all dimensions, including the garage, are 54' 4" by 30' 2".

York hasn't changed the over-all character of the traditional style, but has made variations where necessary to fit present day living requirements. Note, for instance, the movement of the house, a necessary location for old-time heating and cooking facilities, to a point where it can serve both the living room fireplace and the central heating unit.

From the central foyer, the living room and its fireplace come into immediate view. Bi-fold doors are used in the foyer closet because they take up a minimum of swinging room. The dining room is in the popular "L" position with the living room, thus allowing one space to flow into another and making it easier to entertain large groups.

The kitchen has room for the modern, standard appliances as well as a pantry closet. A full bathroom, a lavatory and the kitchen are grouped to minimize the amount of piping required and cut plumbing costs. In line with them, for the same purpose of economy, is the upstairs bathroom.

The two bedrooms downstairs can be utilized in a number of ways. Bedroom No. 2 could, if desired, be used as a den, office or guest room. Or it might serve as a nursery, adjacent to the owners' bedroom, allowing older children to have the run of the upper floor with their private bathroom. Incidentally, the architect has designed extra large windows upstairs to provide plenty of light and air.

Although there is ample closet space on the upper floor, additional room for storage is

Wood shingles and brick are combined in the exterior walls. In houses of this type, the fewer the variety of materials the better, since a house looks much larger with emphasis on mass than upon a multi-use of materials. On the other hand, contrast between roof and sidewall is desirable to create horizontal lines which make a house seem longer than it actually is.

The one-car, attached garage, with its front opening, has a pleasant, wood-shingled appearance. An attached garage, by the way, is one of the amenities of today's Cape Cod, since a barn and/or carriage shed took care of the horse and buggy back in the days when this style of house held sway among American Colonists.

Although this house is only 50' 4" by 30' 2", including the garage, it packs 1678 square feet of habitable area within its 1½ floors.

Draft Dodging Penalty Hiked

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP)—A U.S. District Court judge says he may soon increase the sentence for military draft violators.

After sentencing a young man to three years in prison, Judge John F. Kikenny said that he may make it five years for future violators of draft laws.

The young man sentenced was Brian Philip Savage, 22, Santa Clara, Calif., who refused to report for civilian work in lieu of entering the armed forces.

The judge also revoked the probation of seven other young men, all Jehovah's Witnesses, who also refused civilian work in lieu of military induction.

They already had served six months in jail. The revocation will mean another 18 months in prison for them. All are from Oregon.

Plan High-Speed Railway Trains

BOSTON (AP)—Railroad cars that will be used in high-speed runs between Boston and Washington have already been tested at speeds of 152 miles an hour, says an official of the Budd Co. which is building the cars. Speeds up to 160 miles an hour are expected when the line goes into service early next year.

THE NATIONAL REPORT ON WHAT'S HAPPENING
BREAKFAST, THE ALL-BROKE-UP MEAL: Breakfast is the most disorganized family meal — few families sit down together or eat a regular, hearty menu. It's a help-along, grab-and-run deal, nationwide studies show. You take the brunt of this, because you need 10 to 20 per cent more calories than your parents — and a fourth to a third of this should get stuffed down in you at the first meal of the day. Tests bear out that breakfast eaters get more daily work done than breakfast skippers. The U. S. Department of Agriculture recommends your breakfast be a breakfast link by consuming juices — fruit or tomato — for your vitamin C... bread and cereals to stoke you with carbohydrate energy, minerals, etc. ... milk — at breakfast, and at least a quart a day... plus something hot — and it won't hurt if this is in the eggs or meat department. Maybe you're the kind that hates to get out from under the covers in the morning. O. K., as much as you can the night before — saves time in shoeing a hearty breakfast down. Here are some mouth-watering, startling new dishes really being eaten... that add unusual zip and zest to breakfast: cottage cheese (with any kind of fruit on top); hot soup (why not, you need something hot!); ice cream (it's dairy food and wakes you up like a cold shower); or drink your breakfast (whirl yogurt in a blender, plus wheat germ, syrup, frozen fruit) then, in two minutes slug this entire meal down.

IN EGYPT MUSIC HATES LOVE: In Nasser's United Arab Republic, marriage is overwhelming the blissful state of teen and near-teen girls (around 20 is their average age for marriage). And the booming population is seriously out-stripping the resources of this desert country. Worse — Nasser's year-old family-planning program is faltering badly, with only 20,000 women (among Egypt's 15 million co-operating). So

Youth Beat

THE NATIONAL REPORT ON WHAT'S HAPPENING
 A drastic step is being taken to propagandize anti-propagation... the government is supplying radio stations with anti-love songs, stressing not love, but the problems of having too many children.

NEW HIGH IN HIGHER EDUCATION: Along with courses in rarified philosophy and advanced calculus, Columbia University students now take a novel and pop course — bartending. Run by a professor who is a hotel bar manager teetotaler, pupils are instructed in everything — from how to twist a lemon properly to slivovitz. This fall, students have signed up in such large numbers that double classes are being held. When these Ivy League bar boys pass this course, the student employment agency lines up party assignments — such as at actress Jane Fonda's birthday shindig. Sorry — strictly no mixing with the guests or the contents of the bar and no academic credit for the course.

TEEN GIRLS ARE FIGHTIN' FIT: The President's Physical Fitness Awards came up with a surprise this year in the nationwide tests among junior and senior high school students up to the age of 17. Overturning the program's earlier prediction that boys would lead in scoring and the State of California beat all others in winners — Guess what? Of the 9,000 guys and girls who muscled through to the top, a total of 5,450 were girls. Among the 50 states, Floridians won the most... next came contestants from Illinois, New Jersey, Missouri and Virginia. But, all in all... all of you looked pretty good. The average for participants in the strenuous eight-event tests, which ranged from situps through the 600-yard run, showed a sharp improvement over five years ago.

AT LAST, THE CANNED DRESS: What everyone has been waiting for! It'll be in stores, this holiday season — a textured nylon dress in a one-pound soft drink-type can... Made of wrinkle-free material and inspired by Paris designs, it's styled for ages 15 to 20. Naturally, it's called "Le Canned Dress."
